Hockey League Opens Monday

Canadians and Maple Leafs Face-Off at 8 p.m. in Coleman Arena

At a meeting of the Crows Nest Pass hockey league on Tuesday evening the schedule was drawn up for the season. Four teams comprise the league—Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue and Lethbridge. Medicine Hat Monarchs, an entrant last year, failed to organize this year. The junior team in that city, the Tigers, failed to have a representative at the meeting and were not considered at the drawing of the schedule.

The schedule has been divided into two sections of twelve games, teams meeting each other in home and home games in each section. Lethbridge and Coleman have been given the honor of facing-off the first puck of the season when they meet at the arena here on Monday.

Large crowds have been watching the local team work out at the arena during the past week and have been giving special attention to the five new comers—Quail, of Medicine Hat; Lander and Field, of Macleod; Murdoch of Trail and Barry of Claresholm. Field and Lander showed up well at Monday's practice but are badly in need of coaching around the net. Quail will improve as he becomes accustomed to the locals' style of play. Murdoch held his own in the scrimmages, while Barry, in goal, looked good. Jenkins was the best conditioned player on the ice on Monday.

The Lethbridge line-up for Monday's game will be:

Roberts; McMahon, Petrunia, Bruchet; Stewart, Cormier, Ainsworth; McDowell, Christensen, Spotswood; Anderson.

Jimmy Evans has not yet decided who will form his starting line-up.

Increased Attendance at Musical Festival

Last Seven Years Attendance
Figures Show Festival's Record

The total ticket sales at the musical festival, were $397.25, and it is interesting to note the comparison with previous years. From 1930 to 1936 figures are given in the report submitted to the general meeting by W. H. Chappell, chairman of the ticket sales committee, which shows 1931 as the record year with ticket sales of $622.45. The record year for attendance was 1933, with a total of 1826 adults and children, though the ticket sales that year were less than the record of 1931, being $508.15

The following figures are taken from Mr. Chappell's report, and will prove interesting to those interested in the festival and its operation. The first festival was held in 1925, and Mr. Chappell has records covering attendance and ticket sales since it started. Comparison with previous records will reveal the following interesting statistics for the past seven years—

Ticket Office Sales
Year 1930 - $480.75
" 1931 - 622.45

" 1932 - 392.25
" 1933 - 508.15
" 1934 - 514.10
" 1935 - 353.50
" 1936 - 397.25

Increase in receipts this year in comparison with receipts for the year 1935 was $43.75

Skating Rink in Full Swing

Improvements Add to Pleasure of Patrons—Community Rink is Valuable Asset for Winter Sports.

Enterprise of Coleman citizens by subscribing over $20,000 resulted in the erection of the large arena which has been the scene of many thrilling hockey battles in its 14 years of existence. But like all enterprise of this nature, it is difficult to operate it to show any profit or even a return on the original investment. But the public spirit of those who did put up the money benefits those who follow after.

This year the rink is again leased by Messrs. Easton and Jenkins, and they have improved the interior appearance by paint and structural alterations, in conjunction with the rink committee.

Season tickets are on sale and all who enjoy skating, curling or hockey will be able to enjoy themselves to their heart's content in a fine well-lighted rink.

Power On The Farm

No industry under the sun has greater more numerous and more varied problems besetting it than has agriculture. Nowhere, perhaps, are these problems more difficult of solution than in Western Canada, because of the immense range of the country and wide variation in seasonal and soil conditions, and by no means least of these problems is the power question for the farm.

A few years ago the introduction and popularization of large scale power machinery for farm use on the prairies, gave rise to a highly controversial topic usually designated: "The Horse versus the Tractor". Many farmers aligned themselves in one of two camps, those who favored horses as the motive power on the farm and those who regarded the tractor as the one and only form of power worth while for field operations.

The controversy at times became tinged with bitterness and threatened to become an open feud. Cudgels—verbal ones, of course, were wielded with great vigor and even governments, university authorities and editors of farm papers were accused of trucking to the one side or the other.

For some years it looked as though the advocates of power machinery were in the ascendancy and it was even freely predicted that the time was not far off when the horse would be as extinct as the proverbial don, save perhaps for a few specimens that would be preserved in zoological gardens for the benefit of the curious and the student of natural history.

After awhile the question appeared to lose interest as a public controversial issue within the agricultural domain. The bitterness gradually disappeared and discussion assumed a more moderate complexion.

Reason, which appeared to be tottering on her throne whenever the issue was raised, re-assumed her sway, partly because, like most other things, it gradually dawned on the general consciousness that there were two ideas to the question and that neither one nor the other was wholly right or entirely wrong. Changing conditions also, which have a habit of occurring in a non-static world, revealed that what might be true under certain conditions at a given time is not appropriate under the same, or other conditions, at some other time. In agriculture, as in most other spheres there is no law of the Medes and Persians.

And at this juncture, it might not be inappropriate to remark that this is precisely the reason why farming is a hazardous enterprise and requires in addition to a leavening of luck, a considerable amount of energy, ability and good judgment, to ensure a sporting chance of success.

But to "return to our muttoms", it must be generally recognized to-day that both the horse and the tractor have their place in the agricultural scheme in the prairie provinces and both are likely to have a useful purpose to serve for many years to come.

This has recently been emphasized by A. E. Hardy, Professor of Agricultural Engineering of the University of Saskatchewan, acknowledged as one of the foremost authorities in the west on the subject, in a series of lectures to farmers.

Professor Hardy pointed out that under certain soil conditions results which are impossible with horses can be achieved by power driven machinery and vice versa. He also pointed out that in some sections of the country where soil and other conditions are different farmers would find it almost impossible to carry on with horses at the present time.

There are other considerations which must necessarily be a guide to the farmer in determining what type of power is best suited to his particular purposes and these include his own economic circumstances. There are individual farmers and even some sections of the country where a combination of the two forms of power may yield the best results.

Then, too, the aptitude of the individual farmer and the type of help he is able to secure is an important consideration. There are men who can get much better results from a team of horses than it would be possible for them to do with a tractor while, on the contrary, farmers with a mechanical turn of mind, under the same conditions, are able to achieve much more with a tractor than with horse power and with greater economy. Likewise, there are many farmers who could not get results with power machinery, whose sons aiding them on the farm have very little liking for livestock but can achieve wonders with power machinery.

So that the question of the type of power to use on the farm is one which can only be solved satisfactorily by the individual farmer, taking into consideration the class of soil and the nature of the topography of his land, the size of his holdings, his own economic circumstances and his own aptitudes, predilections and prejudices as well as those of the nature of help available.

In this respect the problem is like that of many others which have been or are the subject of heated controversy. The answer does not lie in any dogmatic ruling but in the circumstances, operating conditions and aptitude of the individual.

New Style Locomotive

Is Designed To Compete With The Diesel-Electrics

Borrowing an idea from Barney Oldfield's steam racing car of 1909, a new railroad steam locomotive, designed to compete with the Diesel-electrics running the new streamlined expresses was announced at the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The new engine is steam-electric—named the "Steamotive." Its steam runs an electric turbine so electricity drives the wheels.

Oldfield's engine made quick, hot "flash" steam by exposing a big area of heating pipes to fire. The new steamotive does the same. It is a midge with giant steam power. It carries a quarter mile of steam pipes all in a space the size of two office desks.

This double-deck area encloses the entire steam and heating plant. An oil burner furnishes heat.

Two of these locomotives are now under construction. The announcement said their horsepower will be 2,500 each.

This rates the newest "baby" of steam power at its birth on a par with the best done so far in Diesel-electric energy. It is still a long way under the most powerful of all engines, the steam coal moguls of 6,000 horsepower. It is under the 5,000 horsepower of electric locomotives which take their "juice" from wire or third rail.

But the engineering society's announcement states the midge, by being enlarged, can be made in feasible sizes of 10,000 horsepower or boiler.

Diesel-electrics at present run from 900 to 1,000 horsepower per unit and are small enough so as many as four units have been hooked together on one locomotive.

The "steamotive" engine's power comes mainly from the fact its steam is produced at pressures of 1,500 pounds a square inch. A little this steam does the work of a lot of the lower pressure steam ordinarily used in locomotives.

The water is driven at high speed through the heating pipes in order to prevent the danger of explosions of the super-power steam.

Turkeys For British Market

Largest Shipments Will Be From The Prairie Provinces

Present prospects are that approaching 1,000,000 pounds of turkeys will be exported from Canada to the British Isles in 1938 for Christmas, most of which will be from the three Prairie Provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The first shipment of Canadian turkeys to the British market for the Christmas trade was made in 1932, when well over 1,000,000 pounds of chilled and frozen birds found ready buyers because of their recognized flavor and quality. All of the turkeys exported from the Dominion are graded, packed and inspected according to Dominion Government standards before shipment.

Turkey raising has developed into quite a substantial industry in Canada in recent years. Of this year's export movement it is expected Manitoba will supply the largest percentage. The shipments for Christmas will go forward both chilled and frozen.

While the principal development in turkey raising in the past few years has been in Western Canada, the industry has been making considerable progress in Eastern Canada, particularly in Ontario and Quebec, where artificial hatching and rearing is carried on somewhat extensively. Most of the production, however, comes from farmers engaged in mixed farming who raise comparatively small flocks.

Foreign Capital In U.S.

Survey Indicates Foreign Holdings To Be Approximately Seven Billion Dollars

Publishing for the first time the details of foreign capital movements which President Roosevelt recently expressed concern, the United States treasury disclosed a $2,283,609,000 net inflow of funds from abroad between Jan. 1, 1935, and last Sept. 30.

This influx, representing the excess of funds coming into the country over those going out, came chiefly from Great Britain, Switzerland, France, the Netherlands and Canada.

Correlated with commerce department reports on capital movements, the treasury survey indicated foreign holdings in this country approached $7,000,000,000—believed the highest in history—on Sept. 30.

Bill Voted Down

House Of Lords Rejects Measure To Permit Medical Men To Kill Incurable Patients

The house of lords voted down proposed legislation to permit medical men to kill patients suffering from agonizing incurable ailments. Under the weight of opposition from such persons as Lord Dawson of Penn, the king's physician, and the Archbishop of Canterbury, the proposal was rejected by a vote of 35 to 14.

Despite present defeat, the bill's sponsor, Lord Ponsonby, predicted eventual passage of a revived measure to permit "euthanasia" (easy death).

"I am certain," he said, "that the time will come when parliament will have to regulate the matter and I am certain that a measure of this kind will be accepted some day."

"I am afraid the alliance between prelates of the Church of England and doctors will defeat me, but I think it is the first time the priesthood and medical men have worked together."

In leading opposition to the bill, Lord Dawson said sentiment was growing that the act of dying should be made more gentle, but that doctors alone could determine whether a patient's desire for death was mere impatience.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said "I cannot but think it is better to leave this difficult and delicate matter in the hands of the medical profession rather than to drag it into the open and regulate it by legal procedure."

"In this matter I would trust the judgment and honor of the medical profession."

Vicentius Fitzalan, a Roman Catholic, said "People of all creeds have as a whole accepted the tradition that the Almighty reserves to Himself alone the power to determine the moment when life shall become extinct."

Seats For Coronation

Large Number Of Applications For Seats To View The Procession

A large number of applications for seats from which to view the coronation procession in London next May have been received by His Majesty's Canadian high commissioner, and it has been decided to close the subscription list for seats at the high commissioner's disposal on Jan. 1. Announcement to this effect was made from the office of the prime minister.

Stands are being erected along the procession route by the United Kingdom government and certain sections have been allotted at cost to high commissioners of the various dominions. As it is expected the demand may exceed the supply it has been decided all applications for accommodations at the disposal of the Canadian high commissioner must be made before the end of the year.

It was further announced applications for these seats must be made individually and that none will be considered if made through an agency, institution, booking office or business firm.

Canadians wishing to obtain reservations in the sections allocated to the Canadian high commissioner will apply direct to his secretary at Canada House in London.

Just An Imaginary Line

International Boundary Means Nothing To Canadian Beaver

The Canadian-American boundary at International Falls, Minnesota, is just an imaginary line to a band of beavers so customs officials are forced to tolerate their "unsupervised entry" into the United States.

The Canadian beavers live on Rainy River island but selected the American shore for wood and food supplies. American property owners, complaining about the damage, asked that the beasts be "deported."

"Deportation" must wait until spring, however, because the state game and fish department ruled the fur-bearers inviolate during their winter slumber.

Trans-Canada Aviation

Passenger And Mail Service To Be In Operation In Near Future

Trans-Canada passenger and air mail service will be in operation by 1938 or 1939 at the latest, Transport Minister Howe told members of a Montreal service club.

This service will be linked with trans-Trans Atlantic service which the minister said is expected to be completed in two years.

He said the Dominion government had made extensive preparations for this service. Landing fields have been established between Montreal and Vancouver at distances 50 miles apart. These fields will be ready for traffic next summer, he said.

The government plans to furnish landing fields, radio beacons and weather reports. "We will look to private interests to do the actual flying," he added.

Under recent agreements between Canada, Great Britain and Ireland, experimental flights across the north Atlantic route will be made next summer, the minister said. "Canada's job will be to pick up passengers and air-mail at the eastern border and fly them to Vancouver."

"When aviation has been developed in Canada a trip from Montreal to Vancouver will take one night and part of a day, instead of three days and four nights as required at present."

The minister said he did not believe the development of aviation would affect the railways. "Instead, I believe it will help them," he asserted. "It will render people more travel conscious. We have not by any means created all the transportation which we are capable of creating in Canada."

Several New Appointments Announced By W. A. Kingsland

Appointment of J. P. Johnson, formerly superintendent of the Calgary division of the Canadian National Railway, as general superintendent of the northern Ontario district with headquarters at North Bay, was announced by W. A. Kingsland, vice-president of the central region.

Mr. Johnson, whose appointment became effective Dec. 1, succeeds W. T. Moodie. Mr. Moodie has been transferred to Vancouver as general superintendent of the British Columbia district.

Mr. Johnson, native of Castle Bar, Que., began his railway career with the old Grand Trunk system as an operator at Warwick, Que.

Praise For British Navy

One Canadian Pays Tribute To Efficient Service Rendered

R. L. Cockfield, M.D., Kei Kwong Hospital, Shkel, South China, tells this story:

Just what the British navy means to Canadians who are temporarily domiciled in lands beyond the sea, may be gathered from the following recent experience of the winter, which typifies the attitude of the navy to Empire citizens wherever they may be found.

The child of my medical colleague, a Canadian also, was critically ill, and he felt the need of a consultant. Unfortunately, by the usual mode of travel, we are at least one day distant from him, therefore in this predicament, he boarded H.M.S. Robin, which happened to be anchored in the port, and stated his case to the Commander. In short order the ship was steaming "out," down the river, and within six hours we were at the bedside of the sick child.

And so, whenever at festive boards toasts are being made, there will always be a particular toast made by one Canadian in tribute to a service which fully understands the meaning of the word service. And the toast will be "The British Navy."

Memorial To Young Airmen

Father Takes Heavy Stone From England To France

One of the women who care for the English war cemetery at Rouen, France, relates that a father has gone to heroic lengths to erect a memorial to the young airman, his son, who died battling in the sky during the World War. The monument is a heavy unpolished stone from Devonshire, England. It was pushed on a handcart by the father from his village in Devon to the coast. A ship carried it to the French coast, and a barge took it up the river to Rouen. From there the father set out with his handcart and pushed the stone all the way to the cemetery. The woman caretaker showed him the grave and he hauled the huge stone onto it. Then the storm fit his words, and sobbing bitterly, he said, "That is the last thing I can do for him."

The Voice Of Edison

Was Heard At Centennial Banquet Of Patent System

The American patent system, basic structure upon which are built factories which support Detroit and other cities, is 100 years old. The centennial was celebrated in all parts of the United States by historical and scientific museums and by banquets of patent attorneys. A dinner at Washington with noted inventors speaking capped the day's events. One of the speakers at the banquet was the man who made the greatest use of the patent office—Thomas Alva Edison. The late inventor was heard through the medium of some of his own products—the phonograph.

Shell Torn Madrid Resembles A Series Of Deserted Villages

Madrid.—Shell torn Madrid resembled a series of deserted villages Sunday with crumbling buildings and battered streets in many sections as a Sunday morning aerial attack brought new death and damage.

The deadly, daily shower of shells has crumpled many houses. Walls of others still stood, but many only shakily.

Shells Sunday fell into the fashionable Paseo de la Castellana, Ayala street and San Bernardo square, where many were killed or wounded. Several buildings were destroyed.

Artillery fire through the night struck several houses near the telephone building and the government claimed two insurgent pursuit planes had been brought down in the Argués district.

An official bulletin reported government guns shelled Anover de Tajo, west of Aranjuez to the south of Madrid, and destroyed the town.

Madrid militia captured the town of San Tola in the Guadalajara sector and the war office said the insurgent were repulsed in the Guadarrama sector, northwest of Madrid.

Armament Orders

Britain Places Large Order In One Of The Dominions

London.—Sir Thomas Inskip, minister for defence co-ordination, told the House of Commons at question time that armaments orders amounting to £400,000 had recently been placed in one of the dominions. He did not specify which one.

The orders included parts of certain scientific instruments and shell bodies. They were placed in order to maintain supplies until the requisite output was available in Great Britain.

Concerning rearmament progress, Sir Thomas said the supply of munitions was generally proceeding according to estimate.

Britain Stands United

Nation Is Prepared For Any Act Of Aggression

London.—Arthur Greenwood, deputy Labor leader in the House of Commons, said in a speech before the country stands united against aggression.

"Let no foreign nation think that if Spain is assailed this country is going to split from top to bottom," he said.

"We are prepared without qualification to supply the country with all the arms necessary to fulfill undertakings given to other nations to preserve the peace of the world. There is no doubt of this in the minds of 99 per cent. of the people."

Confiscation Of Spanish Freighter At Brooklyn Is Reported

New York.—Attaches of the Spanish consulate general announced the confiscation of the Spanish freighter, the S.S. Navemar, at her anchorage off Brooklyn.

The action was taken, it was said, by order of the Spanish government of Madrid. No explanation was offered for the confiscation and officials of the ship's agents, Garcia and Diaz, said they were uninformed.

Atlantic Air Service

France Would Establish Service With U.S. Early Next Year

Paris.—A French trans-Atlantic air service may be transporting mail to and from the United States as early as next year, Air Minister Pierre Cot told the aviation affairs committee of the chamber of deputies.

He estimated it would cost about 60,000,000 francs (approximately $2,700,000) yearly to operate the line, and said a joint company was being envisaged composed of Air-France, the French Line (Compagnie Generale Transatlantique) and the state, which would own the majority of stock.

International agreements would be sought to assure passage of the service over foreign territory, Cot said. He pointed out that experts now are studying a winter route via the Azores and a summer route via St. Pierre and Miquelon, off Newfoundland. Seaplane bases may be established at the call stops, the minister indicated.

Launch National Appeal

Require Large Sum For Drouth Relief In Western Canada

Ottawa.—Norman Sommerville of Toronto, chairman of the national council of the Canadian Red Cross Society, launched a national appeal for $750,000 to be used in drouth relief of western farmers and their families.

Mr. Sommerville told interviewers more than $150,000, including $50,000 from W. J. McConnell of Montreal, and $100,000 worth of goods had been supplied by various industries.

The campaign was opened at a luncheon.

Sommerville said: "We have no conception of the picture in the drouth areas where many farmers have not had any crops for from five to eight years. Things are more desperate than we ever dreamed of and the need is really urgent. It actually is a national emergency."

"Had it been accompanied by something dramatic, like a flood or an earthquake, attention would have been drawn to it, but the situation has developed slowly."

More Work On Railways

Increase In Working Time In Shops Of Canadian National

Montreal.—A substantial increase in the working time in the shops of the Canadian National Railways will be made starting from the first of the new year, President S. J. Hungerford said.

Addressing a dinner of the staff service club, Mr. Hungerford said the new program, resulting from a demand for more locomotive and passenger car shop work, was expected to increase the output of the shops to 1,150 units in 1937 compared to 750 this year.

British War Debts

London.—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, indicated in the House of Commons there were no immediate prospects for reopening war debt discussions between Great Britain and the United States.

Prepare For Trouble

Says South Africa—Should Put Her House In Order

Standerton, Transvaal, South Africa.—Gen. J. C. Smuts, minister of justice, in a speech here declared he did not think there would be war "tomorrow or the next day" but it was evident the nations must put their houses in order.

"The big dogs are only barking and don't like to fight one another," the statesman said. "Now and then they will tackle small nations, as they did with Abyssinia, and swallow them up. So South Africa must put her house in order."

Oswald Pirow, minister of defence, said South Africa must rely on her powerful friend, Britain, to defend her shores, but she herself must undertake land and air defences to repulse any invader or air raider, General Smuts added.

Oswald Pirow, minister of defence, is "busy putting the commando system on a healthy footing with machine guns and aeroplanes," he continued.

Praise For Canadian Press

News Broadcast System Satisfactory Says Gladstone Murray

Sydney, N.S.—Gladstone Murray, general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said in an interview here the present system of news broadcast supplied by The Canadian Press was "highly satisfactory."

Development in this particular field will follow when the situation warrants, Mr. Murray declared.

"I am a great believer in co-operation with the newspapers," he said. "A great deal of public good can be accomplished by the co-operation of these two factors, radio and the press."

Fails To Beat Record

Molison Loses Way On Last Lap Of Speed Flight

Cape Town, South Africa.—Capt. James A. Molison lost his way on the last lap of a speed flight from London to Cape Town and failed to break the record set earlier this year by his estranged wife, Amy Johnson.

Molison and his co-pilot, Edouard Cornillon-Molison, took off Dec. 2 from Kimberley, hoping to conclude quickly their speed 6,000-mile dash but failure to arrive by 3:57 p.m. cost them their chance to better the mark of three days, four hours, 29 minutes Amy Johnson set.

Modern Roman Road

Project Two-Way Concrete Highway Between Berlin And Rome

Berlin.—A projected two-way concrete highway between Berlin and Rome, creating a strategic connection between two of Europe's fascist nations, was disclosed as the subject of lengthy discussions among Chancellor Hitler, Dr. Fritz Todt, general inspector of highways construction, and Senator Pietro Turicelli, Italian road builder.

The project would link the Baltic and the Mediterranean by a modern highway which informed sources regarded as the first practical follow-up of the German-Italian alliance.

Prairies Supplying Turkeys

Regina.—Present prospects indicate that 1,000,000 pounds of western Canadian turkeys will grace the Christmas tables of the British Isles, according to government estimates. These will be largely from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

All birds shipped for the British trade go out under federal grade and inspection.

HELEN KELLER AIDS BRITISH CHARITY

Miss Helen Keller, famous American authoress and poet, who is blind and deaf, is shown above writing a letter on a Braille machine while helping the campaign for the Sunshine Home for Blind Babies in London, England. On each side of the famous authoress are the favorite dolls of Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose.

Ban On Volunteers

Britain Anxious About Reports Of Recruits For Spain

London.—Disturbed by the threatening international scene, the British government made two diplomatic moves.

A note was presented by the foreign office to the German embassy, expressing British regret that Germany by unilateral action had denounced the waterways clauses of the Versailles treaty.

France and Czechoslovakia also despatched notes to the Wilhelmstrasse, expressing regret at the German denunciation of the waterways clauses.

Before the International Hands Off Spain committee, the Earl of Plymouth, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, took the first step towards a ban on volunteers for Spain.

Lord Plymouth expressed the "anxiety" of the British government regarding reports of the arrival in increasing numbers of foreign volunteers in Spain. He asked the chairman's sub-committee to consider the question.

European tension over the Spanish situation, meanwhile, was lessened by an announcement from the German embassy in London the reich had no intention of denouncing the non-intervention agreement or sending troops to Spain.

The committee further agreed to the immediate despatch to the two parties in Spain of a plan for supervision of the importation of arms and other war materials into Spain at the principal points of entry by land and sea.

Work For Unemployed

Project To Be Carried Out On Peace River Highway

Edmonton.—Agreement has been reached between the Dominion and provincial governments for the putting to work of 1,500 unemployed men on three works projects. Work containing the Dominion's agreement to participate in the scheme was received by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and in charge of relief.

The projects on which work will be carried out will be the Peace River highway, Jasper highway and the Nordegg connection of the Jasper-Banff highway.

The work will commence immediately and will continue until March 31 next. Men will be paid 30 cents an hour.

Government Will Restrict And Regulate New Air Transport

Ottawa.—Exploitation of the increasing public by new aviation companies and overdevelopment of flying services such as occurred in connection with railroad facilities are to be guarded against by government action, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, declared.

Aroused by indications air transport companies might be formed to an extent not justified by the traffic and by concerns chiefly interested in "the stock market aspect of company promotion," the minister issued a warning against "high pressure 'salesmanship' associated with such ventures."

Formation of new aviation companies carried no guarantee, the minister declared in a prepared statement that they would receive mail contracts or subsidies, or even that they would receive an operating license. Under existing statutes the minister is in a position of regulating the development of commercial aviation through his licensing authority. He would use this power, the minister said, to guarantee development of air services "along sound lines unhampered by competitive activities and duplications which have marked the older forms of transport."

The minister's statement threw new light on progress being made in arranging for the trans-Canada air services announced some time ago as an immediate government policy.

Negotiations were in progress, he said, to establish the interurban services connected with the trans-Canada air route and for which the government is providing the necessary ground services.

"There have been evidences of late, the statement observed, 'of an increasing tendency to capitalize the growing 'air-mindedness' of the Canadian public in the interests of company promotion which, if permitted to run the usual course, may involve the investing public in disappointment and loss."

"Two licenses to operate a scheduled air transport service must be issued under authority of the Aeronautics Act and part XI of the Air Regulations of Canada. Such licenses are issued on the understanding that the licensee will comply in all respects with the act and the regulations, with such limitations and conditions as are specified therein, and with such other conditions as the minister or his authorized representatives may require for the safe operation of the particular service concerned. In addition, the minister may cancel a license already issued should it be deemed in the public interest to do so."

Winners At Chicago Show

Indiana Farmer Crowned 1936 Corn King Of World

Chicago.—William H. Curry, lanky 46-year-old Tipton county, Indiana, farmer, was crowned 1936 corn king of the world.

Judges at the International Live Stock and Grain Shows declared Curry's 10 ears of Reid Yellow Dent the best at the exposition. His perfectly matched ears measured 10 1/4 inches in length and 7 1/4 inches in circumference.

From some 7,000 head of cattle, Walter Biggar, who for 12 years has come from Scotland to judge the animals, named G. Page, an Aberdeen-Angus from the Oklahoma A. and M. College, Stillwater, Okla., the grand champion 1936 steer.

The black steer, 18 months old, weighed 985 pounds, and is destined for the auction block and slaughter.

Alexander MacLaren of Buckingham, Que., showed the prize milking Shorthorn. James Turner of Cadboro Bay, B.C., exhibited the winning Shorthorn steer in the 875-1,000-pound class.

Edward Brothers of Watford, Ont., had the winning pair of Aberdeen-Angus bulls and the first place Aberdeen-Angus heifer calved between January 1 and April 30, 1936.

Talking Boy Cured

Trouble Was Caused By Brain Inflammation, Doctor Said

Memphis, Tenn.—Four-year-old Emmie Wilson ceased the stream of childish babble that for more than two weeks has flowed almost without interruption from his lips.

"Emmie is recovering nicely and probably go home in four or five days," his physician said. The doctor diagnosed the case as "encephalitis—a brain inflammation that sometimes appears as 'sleeping sickness.'" He said the talking spree was caused by a high fever that accompanied the disease.

Home Improvement Plan Is Designed To Promote Employment

Ottawa.—The home improvement plan not only affords an opportunity to borrow money at the lowest rate for instalment loans in the world but provides home owners with an attractive means of attacking unemployment, members of the cabinet and members of the national unemployment commission told a meeting here.

The meeting, called to choose a local loan committee, was addressed by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice; Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance; Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor; Arthur B. Purvis, Montreal, chairman of the commission; and Prof. W. A. Mackintosh, Kingston, commission member.

Despite winter conditions and the fact details of the plan are not widely familiar, said Mr. Dunning, the banks have reported that in the first two weeks of operation—the first two weeks of November—85 loans have been made with an aggregate value of more than $325,000.

Outstanding men have been chosen as chairmen of provincial committees. Mr. Purvis said. A chairman for Ontario would be chosen in a few days, he stated.

The plan is not merely a plan for lending or borrowing money, declared Mr. Purvis. "It is most emphatically and primarily a plan for inspiring home owners to repair, improve and brighten their homes and thus give work to the end that unemployment is reduced. If the home owner can do it out of his own savings so much the better. If he cannot, the home improvement plan opens the way for him to get the money. The important thing, however, is for the work to go on."

The plan provides Canadian citizens with an obligation as well as an opportunity, said Mr. Rogers.

"Our opportunity as home owners is matched by our obligations as citizens. In every city, town and village of Canada there are men and relief or unemployed who are able and anxious to use their idle hands in the improvement of our homes. These men are our neighbors and our countrymen. Many of them are skilled mechanics."

"Their craftsmanship and experience are a national asset which must not be wasted," Mr. Rogers emphasized. "Most of them have families dependent on them. Many of them have had no work for the entire period of depression."

An opportunity was owed these unemployed workers in the building trades to re-establish themselves in their chosen calling.

Explaining financial details of the plan, Mr. Dunning said a home owner wishing to carry out improvements on his property may borrow money from his bank at a discount rate of 3 1/2 per cent. for a loan repayable within a year in monthly instalments. This works out at an interest rate of 6.32 per cent. It was merely necessary for the property owner to show he is the kind of person who pays his debts and has enough income to meet the instalments.

"In other words," said Mr. Dunning, "these loans are intended to be based on character and income, and not on collateral security."

The rate was almost 40 per cent. below that charged on home repair loans in the United States. "Indeed I believe that this charge represents the lowest cost instalment loan plan that is anywhere available in any country in the world."

It was doubtful if the lending institutions would make any money out of the plan.

Horror Of Poison Gas Said To Be Added To Spain's Civil War

Madrid.—The horror of poison gas has been added to Spain's civil war, medical experts disclosed.

Dr. Hans Franke, physician attached to the government international brigade, and Commissioner of the Chiefs Stern and Regier of the 11th and 12th militia brigades, gave testimony as to the gassing of 10 government soldiers, among them a Belgian veteran of the Great War who had been gassed twice on the western front.

The gas attack was launched by the insurgents in the attempt to advance into Madrid via University City, it was alleged.

The medical men and eye-witnesses said the militia who were gassed had the familiar symptoms of asphyxiation, painful swelling of the eyes and the mucous membrane of the nose. They said the faces of the stricken men turned a greenish color. Their bodies became covered with cold sweat.

"We believe, but cannot be absolutely certain yet, that the gas is of the type known as green cross gas," Dr. Franke said.

It was announced the former German Communist deputy, Hans Beimler, heading the "Thaelmann brigade" on the University City front, was killed. He will be buried in the Kremlin in Moscow, it was reported.

London.—Great Britain received official notification from General Francisco Franco, Spanish Fascist leader, that his planes "planned frequent attacks both day and night on presumed enemy ships" from north of Alicante to west of Malaga.

Officials said they presumed the neutral shipping zones at Alicante and Cartagena were excluded. 2180

Keep Sidewalks Clean

Cement sidewalks around the business area should be swept as soon as possible following a fall of snow. Some faithfully do this work, and others neglect it. There is a by-law compelling this to be done, and nothing indicates neglect and indifference more than snow left lying around the business section. Keep the town looking as smart as possible. Be a good neighbor.

Social Credit Not for B. C.

States Pattullo

Premier Pattullo of British Columbia stated his government had no intention of going in for "wild schemes" like Social Credit as attempted in Alberta, but "had its feet on the ground." It would proceed, he said, on sound lines, depending on capital account only for essential public improvements particularly on the highway system. The B. C. government intends to borrow $5,000,000 for south Okanagan irrigation development and for highways.

Sale of Christmas Seals

The co-operation of hundreds of theatre-managers across the Dominion is enlisted to bring the story of Christmas seals and the fight that is unceasingly waged against tuberculosis in Canada to thousands of theatre-goers within the next three weeks. Every theatre in Canada is assisting from the large metropolitan houses to neighborhood theatres.

In spite of the heavy snowfall, Mr. Somerville, resident engineer at the government aerodrome states that work is proceeding at a regular pace, as the snow is easily removed from the surface so that grading and leveling can be done. It is the aim to have the field ready for use by the time the trans-Canada air mail is inaugurated on July 1, 1937.

THE COLEMAN JOURNAL

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE following editorial from the Cranbrook Courier entitled "Do You Pay Your Bills?" is of interest in showing how a person should safeguard his credit standing, no matter with whom he deals:

"Do you justify the faith your creditor showed in you when he extended you the credit you asked for and possibly needed? Or do you take advantage of this confidence and 'let him wait' when he presents his bill for payment. A good credit rating is a valuable asset. It is something to be desired and carefully guarded. It reflects character, honesty, and integrity. What about yours? Is it above reproach?"

The whole structure of modern business is built on credit. Anything that weakens credit weakens business; weakened business means curtailment of expenditures, needed improvements and helps to bring about hard times. Credit is granted on some definite payment basis. If you haven't paid a bill you should have some reason. Is it that the merchandise you bought isn't satisfactory? Have you notified the merchant and given him an honest chance to make an adjustment? In almost every case he will go to the limit to satisfy you and retain your good will and patronage. Has something unexpected come up that makes it impossible for you to pay him when due? Have you told your creditor this and given him an opportunity to show his willingness to cooperate? Or do you just put his bill aside and say "Maybe next month?" In the meantime, what do you expect him to think? Would you get mad if he wrote or called you? Wouldn't you?

Read the above over carefully and give it a few minutes serious thought. Do you have any past due bills? Look them up and pay them now. If you can't pay all, pay part. If you can't pay any, at least be fair enough to go to your creditors and tell them the circumstances and give them some honest idea when you will pay. Don't continue to "dodge" or "ride" them. Treat them as you would desire to be treated.

If Everyone kept his store front swept, or words to that effect, came to mind after the heavy snowfall this week. Some were out very early on Monday morning clearing away Sunday's accumulation, while others were a few hours late. Nothing is more annoying than to have to wade through deep snow on a part of the sidewalk, or walk single file on a cowpath, and alternate between a cleanly swept piece of walk and climb over a small hill to get over the pile that hasn't been cleared away. So that if everyone keeps his own little bit of sidewalk clear, the whole town would be kept clean. The town snow plow keeps the roads open; property owners must keep the sidewalks open, and it entails very little labor for each individual.

PRaise AND BLAME

More people are ruined by censure than are spoiled by praise. Praise goes to the heads of some people but more often it makes them humble. They know their failings. Praise makes them want to measure up to what is apparently expected of them. Most people are making a brave, often pitiful struggle to keep "face" before the world. Censure sometimes crushes them so that they never rise again. Or if a person is not crushed by condemnation he stiffens his spine in self-justification and thus bars the way to self improvement. Deep down in his heart everyone has an ideal of what he should be. If criticized he naturally defends himself and through that may in time as above intimated blur the memory of what he promised to do toward realizing his own ideal. Suppose others by praise recognize what he has accomplished. If over stated he wants to meet the mark set. If understated it is still an impetus to make outward what he knows he is inwardly. If you wish to see a man develop in power and achievement, then praise him. If you want to see him shrivel and defend what he has already attained and eventually be satisfied with it, then subject him to frequent criticism. Nature builds a callus around a physical hurt or imperfection. Self-assertion and arrogant importance are the soul's self-built callus, to cover a secretly-realized defect.

Just Another Racket

Just another racket at the expense of the merchants of the small towns might describe the efforts made by a daily newspaper from the city to secure advertising which from the standpoint of developing local business for them is absolutely nil. Such schemes are not aimed to help the local retailers; they are only concerned with getting easy revenue for themselves and building up the cities at the expense of the small towns. Retailers would be well advised to ask themselves the simple question—what chance has such advertising of increasing local business? It is absolutely nil.

When one of these advertising solicitors was referred to The Journal or the Board of Trade, he remarked—"to heck with them." And that's how they feel about the merchants from whom they try to extract cash. Away with them; let them canvass the city where they belong.

What Life Insurance Means to the Women and Children of Canada

Thousands of Canadian families, Life Insurance means financial security against the uncertainties of the future.

To each family deprived of its breadwinner, Life Insurance means food, clothing, shelter and other necessities of life.

It means ready cash to meet pressing obligations during the difficult re-adjustment period.

It means money to pay the rent or meet mortgage payments.

It means funds for the education of children until they are old enough to support themselves.

It means rearing your family in self-respect, free from the humiliation of private charity or public relief.

It means contented retirement for the business woman when she is no longer able to work.

Every working day, Life Insurance disburses $500,000 to Canadian homes. Every day, it helps to keep homes together and families united.

No wonder that Canadian women appreciate the value of Life Insurance, and are grateful to their loved ones whose far-sighted thrift has made possible such vital financial security for themselves and their children.

The Speech Translator

Solves Language Problems At League Of Nations Meetings

The "Speech Translator" has helped solve language problems at the League of Nations meetings. For instance, when the Emperor Haile Selassie made his address at Geneva he spoke in Amharic. Probably nobody except a few Ethiopians understood the language, yet the delegates followed the Emperor's speech almost simultaneously. Wires connected with a microphone in front of the speaker carry his voice to expert translators behind the scenes, each of whom can translate the language being used into a second language. These interpreters speak into telephones which are connected with earphones on the desks of the delegates, who have merely to turn a knob to whichever language they want to hear.—New York Times.

A Mutual Mistake

The readiness of Irish wit is exemplified in the story about some passengers traveling from Liverpool to London. One missed his handkerchief—a colorful, expensive affair—and bluntly accused his neighbor, an Irishman, of taking it.

Rising, the man found he had been sitting on the handkerchief. A third passenger suggested that the accused apologize. But the Irishman said:

"Oh, there is no occasion for an apology. There was a mutual mistake. He took me for a thief and I took him for a gentleman."

No Ground For Criticism

Commercial Side Of Canada's Air Service Second To None

Whatever criticism may be leveled against Canada for lack of an effective military air force, there is no ground for criticism of the commercial side. Colonel George A. Drew, who knows a great deal about these things, is authority for the statement that in 1935 Canadian airlines carried a good deal more freight and express package goods than those of six of the leading countries together. The amount of freight and express transferred by Canadian planes totalled 13,220 tons as compared with 2,126 tons carried in the United Kingdom, 2,068 tons in Germany, 1,459 tons in France, 1,053 tons in Italy, 1,110 tons in Holland and 2,460 tons in the United States.

Primarily this is due to the remarkable extent to which the transport of machinery and supplies are conveyed to the mining areas in Quebec, Northern Ontario and the North-West areas. It is unfortunate that so many of the mines are in remote territories, where snow and ice form early in the season and last late, and where road-making would be an expensive and difficult proposition, being outside the range of economic practicability at present.

The planes are good, strong and reliable, but the pilots are simply marvellous, as daring as they are skillful. Canada may not have any of the super-speed planes of the British Royal Air Force, but if a time should arrive when we need to use planes for defence purposes, it should not need much time to transform the northern aircraft machines into military planes, with the exact type of pilots ready on the spot.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A Pocket-Sized Car

Looks Like Toy But Is Economical And Easy To Handle

A pocket-sized English roadster appeals to women, it is said, because of its size, economy and easy road handling. It weighs 200 pounds less than the average car, which makes a difference in steering strain. It could almost be wheeled before the Christmas tree as a surprise gift, it looks so much like a toy. This toy-like size also makes for easy parking. A gallon of gas is enough fuel for 60 miles, and an oil purifying unit makes it necessary to change the oil only twice a year. Any lone woman with lots of ground to cover might be enchanted. The line includes roadster, touring car and sedan.—New York Times.

Originated During World War

The word "cootie" originated during the World War when a polio, holding one of the victim up to a doughboy, exclaimed, "Ee-cutee!" which is the French equivalent for our "Say, listen!" But the doughboy thought he said "a cootie," and that's what it was called from then on.

"We should be careful what we say," said the careful friend. "Of course," said Miss Cayenne, "although it isn't so much what you say that makes trouble as what somebody says you said."

Of all the world's millions of insects, not one species lives in the ocean.

Canadian Flour In Britain

Seventy Per Cent. Of British Flour Now Coming From Canada

The Canadian wheat board has opened its advertising campaign to maintain the existing high content of Canadian flour in British bread. Due to a combination of circumstances 70 per cent. of British flour is now coming from Canada. This is the highest percentage ever achieved in the wheat board's campaign designed to educate the British consumers on the supreme quality of the prairie product.

Increasing use of Canadian flour during the past year has been accompanied by a marked improvement in the quality of the British loaf and this point is being stressed in the wheat board's campaign.

Care is being taken not to discriminate between the grain trade and the millers. The high quality of Canadian flour, whether milled in the United Kingdom or in Canada, is being emphasized. George McIvor, assistant chief commissioner of the wheat board, is supervising the inauguration of the campaign which is being carried on under the direction of R. V. Edgely, the board's representative in London.

New Shakespeare Finding

Discovery Of Signature Proves Bard Of Avon To Be An Educated Man

A newly discovered signature, provisionally accepted as that of William Shakespeare, proves he was an educated man, Dr. Henry David Gray, of Stanford University, concluded in a paper read to the Philological association at the Pacific coast at Los Angeles.

"This signature of an expert penman," he said "definitely disproves the contentions of the Baconians and anti-Shakespeareans that Shakespeare was an uneducated man incapable of producing the masterpieces attributed to him. Although resembling the existing 'Will' signatures which are the uncertain scribbles of an aged man, this is a beautifully, surely executed piece of handwriting." Dr. Gray said the new signature was penned with the ornate flourish which literate men of Shakespeare's time practiced. He suggested the age of the penman as the explanation of the other autographs.

EASY TO MAKE AN ALL-PURPOSE SUITS FOR MEN, BOYS OUT WEAR

By Anne Adams

It's a downright necessity—this fetching, all-purpose pattern promises to give its wearer the ultimate in style and service, at a minimum cost. It's easily made, beides, and as perfect under your topcoat this winter as 'twill be without a coat next spring. There's an individual line to the yoke, easy cut raglan sleeves, and yes, that important flare at the hemline by reason of two trimly inverted pleats. Ever so smart in a cotton tweed, in a rich, jewel-tone synthetic crepe, wool crepe or jersey, you'll find it making a trim appearance at club-meetings, church gatherings, school or office. Choose bright novelty buttons for accent.

Pattern 4186 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 2 1/2 yards 44 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coin or stamps (coin preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Miss Anne Adams, Address: Room 10, 1001, and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Fight Political Corruption

Women Of Arizona To Take Matters In Their Own Hands

Five hundred women vigilantes—"baked no odds and giving none"—sought incorporation at Phoenix, Ariz., to wage secret but relentless warfare against corrupt government officials.

In filing articles of incorporation the "Women's Investigation Committee of 500" disclosed it has been secretly operating for some time and "our influence already has been felt." "Several men have called up to ask what we are going to do to them," said Alice M. Birdsall, Phoenix attorney and one of three directors of the committee. Only the directors will be known publicly. The others will work in secret.

"Neglect of duty and corruption in public officials and their employees, as well as of all matters tending to cause corruption in the body politic, or which encourage vice or crime," will be investigated and the findings brought to light, said the articles of incorporation filed with the state corporation commission.

Must Have Permission

American Diplomats Have To Obtain Approval Of U.S. Officials Before Marrying Foreigners

An American diplomat who falls in love with a foreigner henceforth will have to propose twice—once to the woman of his choice and once to the United States secretary of state.

If the secretary approves he will be free to marry, but if he fails to ask the secretary's permission before marrying he will face dismissal. Asserting 122 foreign service career officers, 38 per cent. of the total, were married to aliens, the state department made public an order signed by President Roosevelt forbidding such unions in the future unless they are properly approved.

The order was accompanied by a circular instruction to all consular and diplomatic officers, stating a recent checkup of such international marriages "reveals a state of affairs that cannot be regarded with approbation."

"Oh, about six, ma'am."

"Tough or tender?"

"Some are tough, and some tender!"

To this unusual request, the delighted grocer complied at once, saying, "Please, ma'am, these here are the tough ones!"

Whereupon, the customer coolly laid her hand on the others and said, "I'll take these, please."

JOHN'S VISION ON PATMOS

Golden text: Fear not: I am the first and the last, and the Living One. Revelation 1:17.
Lesson: Revelation 1:1-3:22.
Devotional reading: I. Corinthians 15:35-44.

Explanations And Comments

A Portrait of the Christ, verses 9-20. I, John, your brother and partaker with you in the tribulation and kingdom and patience which are in Jesus (patience which Jesus brings, Moffatt), was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God and the testimony of Jesus (for adhering to God's word and the testimony of Jesus, Moffatt). John was banished to Patmos because of his faithful proclamation of the word of God and witnessing for Christ.

I was in the Spirit on the Lord's Day. This is the first use of "the Lord's Day" for the first day of the week; it was so called in memory of Christ's resurrection. John was meditating upon Christ and divine things, his mind was open and receptive for divine things.

I heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet saying: Write, compare Ezekiel 3:12). What thou seest (your vision), write in a book and send it to the seven churches.

Turning toward the voice that spoke, he saw seven golden candlesticks, which stood for the seven churches. And in the midst of the candlesticks was one who resembled a human being, with a long robe, and a belt of gold round the breast (Moffatt's translation). The glorified Christ was seen arrayed, not in the short, seamless tunic of a Galilean peasant, as in the days of his ministry, but in the long robe of a High Priest, which symbolized to a Jew the highest authority on earth. The garb was worn, not about the waist, but about the breast, as the High Priest wore it when on duty: Christ was in active service. And his head and his hair were white as snow; they were absolutely white. White is the symbol of righteousness and wisdom. Christ is the only perfect Man. And his eyes were as a flame of fire: compare Dan. 7:9; 10:6. And his feet like unto burnished brass, as if he had been refined in a furnace. His feet are hard and hot, they scorch and shrivel into nothingness all obstructions to his path. And his voice sounded like many waters (Moffatt's translation). "The world is filled with the reverberations of what he says."

And he had in his right hand seven stars, the seven stars were the seven churches, and since they stood for completeness, the symbolism means that he holds all the churches of the world in his hand. But of his mouth proceeded a sharp, two-edged sword. His message is two-edged, it acts in every direction, no one may escape from its keenness. And his face shone like the sun in full strength (Moffatt's translation).

And when I saw him I fell at his feet as one dead. Compare the effect of their vision upon Daniel and Ezekiel: Dan. 8:17; 10:9; Ezekiel 1:28. When John was with Christ as he walked and talked in Galilee, he had not been so overpowered by his presence. But John the exile on Patmos, when he beheld Christ in the full splendor of his authority and power, as the ever living Christ working in history, fell amazed and speechless before him. But Christ did not want him to lie powerless before him. He bade him rise, and inspired him with courage and hope as he said, as he had said to him on the Sea of Galilee, "Fear not."

"I am the first and the last," he continued, "and the Living One; I was dead, and behold, I am alive for evermore, and I have the keys of death and of Hades." By "Hades" is understood the world of the dead, and no distinction is to be made between it and death.

The only country in which regular slave markets still exist is Arabia. At Madi Berk and El Tai, hundreds of slaves brought from all parts of Africa are sold weekly.

The Coliseum at Rome accommodated 100,000 spectators, 87,000 of which were seated. Its arena measured 182 feet from side to side, and 285 feet from end to end.

Greece issued the first coin to bear a human likeness, that of Athena, goddess of wisdom. On the reverse side was the figure of an owl.

CHANGED HER SHOES

FIVE TIMES A DAY

Suffered for 20 Years with Rheumatism

Try and picture the life this woman led for twenty years—changing her shoes several times a day in a vain endeavor to attain some relief from the rheumatic pains that were constantly troubling her. Then imagine her joy when she found that Kruschen was driving away the rheumatism. This is what she writes:

"I have been using Kruschen Salt for four years. For twenty years previously I had suffered with my feet, sometimes changing my shoes five times a day, and frequently sitting without any pain as the pain was so great. Now I can wear the same pair of shoes all day with comfort. I cannot speak too highly of Kruschen Salt. Only those who had been in constant pain with their feet for years can know what it was to be free." (Mrs. E.A.)

It is deposits of excess uric acid, lodging between the joints, which are frequently the cause of rheumatism. Kruschen Salts contain two ingredients—sodium and potassium—which are effective solvents of uric acid.

The City Of Madrid

Although Spanish Capital It Is Not Very Important

The London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal says although Madrid is the Spanish capital, it lacks the ecclesiastical prestige of Toledo and the commercial importance of Barcelona. Its high buildings above narrow streets make it rather a gloomy city, but it has many splendid palaces, flowering courtyards, and practically no suburbs. Its climate has been described as "three months in an icelouse and nine in a furnace."

Spanish archaeologists claim great antiquity for Madrid, but its first mention is in an Arab chronicle more than a century before the Norman Conquest. Alfonso VI, captured it from the Moors in 1083. Henry V, used it as a hunting seat, and, though Charles V, liked its keen air, it was not until 1560, two years after Queen Elizabeth had been crowned in centuries-old London, that Philip II, of Armaque made Madrid his capital and only capital.

So the romance of Old Madrid is really a legend, and, as ancient European cities go, it is almost a parvenu.

Backs Carburator Invention

Toronto Mining Man Said To Be Behind Carburator Developed In Winnipeg

The Toronto Star in a copyright story said Jack Hammell, wealthy Toronto mining man, will back a carburator invention of Charles Fugue of Winnipeg.

Fugue, the paper said, claims his carburator will require only one gallon of gasoline for 200 miles a motor car travels. Tests have been made, the paper added, with a car at Hammell's home at nearby Oakville, where Fugue has been working quietly at a hidden Toronto laboratory to perfect his invention.

Fugue, 28-year-old Winnipeg man, is said to have worked 18 years on his invention at Winnipeg and to have taken out a basic patent.

Perhaps there would be more women chess players if it were not so difficult to sit for hours and think a lot but say nothing, says the Toronto Star.

This Safe, External Treatment Helps END A COLD Quicker

The 3-Minute VapoRub Massage

Massage VapoRub briskly on the throat, chest and back (between and below the shoulder blades). Then spread it thick over the chest and cover with warm cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, VapoRub starts to bring relief two ways at once—two direct ways:

1. Through the Skin. VapoRub acts direct through the skin like a potent plaster.

2. Medicated Vapors. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by body heat, are breathed in for hours—about 18 times a minute—direct to the irritated air-passages. This combined plaster-and-vapor action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation—helps break congestion.

During the night, VapoRub keeps right on working. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Avoids Risk of Stomach Upsets The safe, external treatment cannot possibly upset the stomach, as constant internal "dosing" is so apt to do. It can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.

Better Control of Colds

evening who were not soon to forget the party. Certainly the events which transpired were startling enough to the point of sensation-alism.

It was a heavenly night for a party and for late September, Starr thought as he curried along the Long Island roads toward the Casino. Balm and sweet, with the last warm kiss of Summer, in the air. There was a moon, too—a moon seemed all ways to have so much to do with the affairs of Starr Ellison—and it was doing marvelous things to the Sound that was glimpsed at intervals, magic things that could have meant so much to him. And did not it could be so perfect if... The same old "if." She refused to consider it any longer. Her thoughts for this night must be on a course she had deliberately planned. What would be the outcome?

Starr made the usual sensation when she entered the Casino on the arm of Lance Marlowe, the sensation to which she had become accustomed. She was wearing her favorite, clinging black velvet this night, a sheath-like thing with dazzling, glittering, Lancs made shoulder straps, that with the cool black of the frock accentuated the camellia creaminess of her throat. She wore too, long, antique silver earrings that might have been an heirloom from some Eastern princess of the blood.

Lance whispered to her as he led her into the room:

"You're marvelous! You always are. But you should not be wearing ornaments without gems. You're born for them. I know the kind you need. Five opals—they're perfect for you, who are all fire and ice."

She gave him a long-eyed glance of thanks—a Starr Ellison glance that could mean so much, or nothing. As a change from other occasions, Starr arrived early at this party, perhaps was dining as the particular guest the host chose to escort. She had been dancing some time when she first saw Michael. She had not seen him when he came in.

He was with Stephanie, and even before their eyes met, Starr saw that their painful interview of the night before and her running away from him this morning had added taut lines to his face. He did not appear to be wanting to be with Stephanie, but she was obviously claiming him and when his glance did first meet Starr's there was an unspoken child in his eyes. Not that he was angry, exactly, because he probably understood why he had not found Starr at home. She had so plainly told him that she would not give him his answer until this night.

He got a chance only in passing to remark:

"Pretty dumb to try running away from me again. You can't get away with it, sweetheart."

And Starr, in a quick whisper: "I told you I wouldn't give you my answer until tonight."

Then she was gone, dancing with the rest of the men, all eager for a cut-in. The party was getting more lively every minute. Soon—so Starr knew—it would reach a climatic point. That was always the way with Lance Marlowe's parties.

Before it reached that point it was inevitable that somebody should insist that "Play-Girl" sing for them—something out of her homeland of Egypt. That was getting to be one of the best publicity selling points. Starr did not hesitate, nor wait to be coaxed. That was beneath the dignity of "Play-Girl." Always willing to oblige; always looking for encomiums for a little known talent.

Nobody among them knew how Starr wanted to sing the night, though, as she made her way to the orchestra stand, looked over the instruments, and decided that she would use only drums for her accompaniment, and a touch of the oboe that could simulate a desert pipe. She wanted to sing one song—hoping that that was always the way with Lance Marlowe's parties, somewhere in his subconsciousness, would understand. If not tonight, then sometime. It was to be a farewell song that should come out of her heart.

The lights dimmed as "Play-Girl" took up the stick for the drum's first roll. In the odd silence, her voice lifted in the desert song of the freed negroes of Touggourt, that song that is part of the desert, known no place else. The lit of her voice tried to carry her message to one man:

"The gazelle dies in the water, The fish dies in the air, But in the dunes of the desert sands For my love that is deep and sad..."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not doing freely, your food doesn't digest. Just digest the bowels. One blood up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons pile up in the bowels, and your food doesn't and the world looks poor.

There's a little Liver Pills in every bottle. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes only one bottle of Carter's Little Liver Pills to get three times as much of bile as the liver makes you feel "up and go." Harmless and gentle, they are the best. They do the work of a cathartic but have no cathartic or mercury in them. For Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Satisfactorily relieve anything else, too.

Michael's protectively as if to hold him against outside claimants. But Michael's eyes, it was equally obvious to be seen, were all for the ivory-white brunette, with the age-old eyes of opportunity to cut in on Starr Ellison. Lance was just filling up the glass Starr held out to him. With a challenging glance into Lance's eyes, Starr tipped her glass and drank it. She drank that, knowing she would need it for courage for what was to come.

She said crisply: "Fill it up again, Lance!"

She caught Michael's glance, then, as if she had not before known he was watching her. He shook his head disapprovingly. Michael did not like to see women drinking. He was funny that way—old-fashioned.

(Neither had the girl David Garrick loved like drinking.)

Michael—Starr could remember every word he had ever said on the subject. He thought it was quite all right for a girl of her family to take a cocktail or a champagne glass, to take a sip now and then—that was intriguing—but steady drinking was degrading. Getting tight was something no girl in her right senses ever did.

Lance's eyes met Michael's full glance as she deliberately lifted the second glass of champagne to her lips and drained it. No one who saw her could possibly have guessed at the significance of her action.

It was not suddenly that Starr had seen her way to get him out of the Mayfair last night. She had seen it that afternoon when a rather nervous desert cast of actors had given a performance of "David Garrick" in a barn theatre near Stamford. She had only been biding her time for the opportunity for her own sake to perform which would, for her, be more tragic than the soul hurts of the real David.

Michael was waiting for his answer. Well—he would have it. She could not give to him in words. Another scene like that in the balcony at the Mayfair last night would be too agonizing.

Cold-bloodedly, Starr Ellison, with an aching heart, had planned another way.

Mechanized Army

Canadian Militia To Be Reorganized On New Lines

Mechanization and a substantial development of the technical arm are outstanding features of the reorganized Canadian militia whose general composition is now made available.

Unit peace establishments are not greatly varied so far as personnel is concerned. Such equipment has been completely changed. New formations have been introduced, chief among which is the new style "machine gun battalion."

Horses appear doomed to extinction so far as the infantry and artillery are concerned, their places taken by motorcycles and armored cars of various types.

An infantry rifle battalion (peace establishment), henceforth will consist of 35 officers, seven warrant officers (class one and two), 82 staff sergeants and sergeants and 312 other ranks. These are distributed among a battalion headquarters, one headquarters and four rifle companies. Each company consists of four platoons, with two light machine guns per platoon except in the headquarters platoons which will have two light machine guns and two trench mortars.

In other respects the old infantry stand-by continues. The bandmen will still be required to act as stretcher-bearers.

The infantry machine gun battalion is completely mechanized under the new system. Its composition provides for a battalion headquarters, one headquarters company, one scout, two machine gun and one anti-tank companies. All ranks, including attached personnel, number 472.

Twenty-four armored machine gun carriers, 24 general service trucks, eight 30-cwt. lorries, 16 protected scout cars, 29 motorcycles and nine other cars go to make up the equipment of such a unit.

Visitors To Coronation

The Largest Number In History Is Now Expected

England expects the largest number of visitors in its history for the coronation of King Edward in May.

Already almost every boat for next season, wharves from New York to the Malay Straits, is "booked up." Leading hotels have sold out their accommodations, and a search for "1,500,000 rooms" in the suburbs and the nearby towns has been started by a committee on arrangements. But the problem is how to get there, and where to stay, is more in comparison with the simple more difficult of royal coronation on its way to or from Westminster Abbey.

As for getting in the Abbey! Well, that's something few visitors can even think about attempting. By the time the royal family, visiting monarchs, bishops, peers, and members of the government are taken in there will scarcely be any room for others.

Fortunately, the route of the procession is being stretched over six miles so that visitors will have a reasonable chance to get a place in a hotel, store or apartment offering a view. But it is going to cost money.

Although anybody hoping to see the procession from a vantage point must pay a minimum of $25, and maybe up to $100, there will still be a possibility of getting up early and finding a place like the Englishmen who will line the sidewalks on the day of the coronation.

Australian Naval Construction

Warship And Destroyers To Be Built In New Program

A new warship armed with six-inch guns and a squadron of destroyers will be built in Australia's Cockatoo Island dockyard under a new naval construction program announced by government officials at Canberra.

Importation of British-built cruisers will be continued for some years. Naval construction has now reached a stage where all component parts of destroyers can be made in Australia, the government believes. Two new ships were recently launched. Continuous employment of hundreds of shipwrights and other naval construction workers is assured by the plan, officials said. They expressed hopes that a permanent industry can be established.

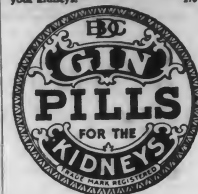

This Was Different

"John writes that several of his friends in the senior class have got him interested in fencing," Mrs. Brown was putting down a letter.

"That's more than we could do when he was home," sighed Mr. Brown. "The sight of a spade or post hole digger always seemed to give him the jitters."

Little Helps For This Week

Now therefore keep thy sorrow to thyself, and bear with a good courage that which hath befallen thee.

Go bury thy sorrow, the world has its share, Go, bury it deeply and hide it with care, If this be accomplished, others are blest; Go, give them the sunshine and tell God the rest.

Trouble brings for us, if we will accept it, the boon of fortitude, patience, wisdom and sympathy. If we reject that, then we find in our hands the other gifts, cowardice, weakness and despair. If your trouble seems to have in it no other possibility of good, at least set yourself to bear it like a man. Let none of its weight come to other shoulders. Try to carry it so no one shall ever see it. Even though your heart be sad within, let cheer go out from you to others. Meet them with a kindly presence, considerate words, and helpful acts.

A Flexible Language

American Educationists Would Go The Limit And Devise English

Teaching of a "horse sense" language, streamlined for the times, was advocated by educationists seeking ways to end the teaching of "nightmare" of formal grammar.

In fact, the words "grammar school" would lose their meaning under the proposal of Prof. Robert C. Pooley of the University of Wisconsin, leader of one symposium of the teachers of English in the national council of teachers of English grammar be left for late in high school.

Dr. Walter Barnes of New York University charged grammarian set up rules which were useless outside a classroom. He foresaw acceptance of a language flexible as one's dress. Part of this living language, he said, would be expressions like "blather-skits," "spill the beans," "it is me" for "it is I," "I'd" for "I would," "all to the good," or "go to it."

"What we need to teach," the professor declared, "is a horse sense language. Most of the old instruction in grammar was all wet and a waste of time."

Tragedy On Great Lakes

Earlier Calling Of Sleeping Captain Might Have Prevented Disaster

Earlier calling of the sleeping captain might have prevented foundering of the S.S. Sank Merchant which sank in Lake Erie last October 17 with a loss of 19 lives, it was disclosed in findings by a commission which investigated the worst tragedy of the Great Lakes' shipping season.

Responsibility for the loss of life in what Commissioner Mr. Justice Errol McDougall termed a "tragic and appalling disaster," was charged to First Officer Bernard Drinkwater of Port Stanley, Ont., and Second Officer Wilfrid John Bourke, of Victoria Harbor, Ont., who perished with Mrs. Drinkwater and 16 crew members. They failed, the commission found, in not being "sufficiently alert in obeying the master's orders to get the lifeboats out and the crew aboard."

A Common Language

Australian Senator Thinks This Would Insure World Peace

King Edward was formally requested by the Australian senate to convene a world conference to study the possibility of adopting an international language as a means of assuring peace.

The resolution, adopted upon submission by Senator Macartney Abbott, will be forwarded to London via the governor-general's office.

Senator Abbott said he had no particular language in mind when he drafted his motion. It would be up to the conference to decide whether English or Esperanto was advisable, or whether an entirely new language should be created, he said.

Thou Shalt Not Love

—A NOVEL BY—

GEORGIA GRAIG

She sent Sapphira out on some errand pretext while she got into her street clothes fast some one being ever thought anybody could, aside from some vaudeville quick-change artist. She flew out of the apartment, ran for the elevator, jumping her beret on her head. Sapphira would have to attend to Michael. She would have to attend to himself. She would not be there to make any explanations when he arrived. And she would have a chance to think.

Starr had no vaguest idea where she was going, except that she was on her way. She slid out of the main entrance into some one being hunted, eyes alert for any sign of Michael. Thank heaven, his maroon car was nowhere in sight. She halted the first taxi that passed, and ordered the man to drive through the Park. That would give her a chance to consider the next step. Though what it would be she had not the faintest idea. She wanted Michael—she wanted Love—but she could not and she must not accept them. She must find some way of refusing them that would not hurt—Michael—Hassan—too much.

At the Hundred and Tenth Street entrance to the Park, a passing bus gave her an idea. She leaned forward to speak to the driver through the open glass.

"The Connecticut buses go past here somewhere, don't they driver?" she asked.

"Sure do, Miss. But the best place from here, if you're wanting to take one, is Hundred and Twenty-fourth and Lenox, or maybe Fordham. . . . You can 'bout catch one—they go on the hours from downtown."

"Hurry!" said Starr. "I want the Stamford bus."

She could not have told why she did that, for the life of her. It was merely somewhere to go. It was an hour later when she got out of the big whirling bus in the centre of the smart Connecticut town. The first time she had ever been here, as much as she had heard of the place.

Standing at the circle she had no slightest idea of where she meant to turn next. The flickering lights of a movie house gave her an idea, but the advertised entertainment in no wise appealed to her. It was getting toward what would be matinee time in New York. She wondered if she could find some kind of show that
